CREATING EMOTIONAL SAFETY IN YOUR CLASSROOM

5 POINTS

ALL EDUCATORS

One of the key elements to supporting children's learning is for them to feel emotionally safe. When they feel emotionally and physically safe, they feel safe and when this happens, they are able to learn, receive information, listen and respond.

In this course you will learn what emotional safety is and why it is so important. You will learn about the 5 key skills you need to cultivate emotional safety with anyone and how to practically implement this in your classroom.

When children feel safe, they are available to connection, when they feel connected, they are more open to co-operation, and they have a willingness to engage and be part of activities.

This course will be fundamental in changing the emotional environment of your class, and it will give you the tools to recognise when a child is feeling unsafe.

After completing this course you will walk away with knowledge, skills and practical tools you can start to use immediately in your classroom.

Learn how to:
